

Accident Victim Dies Five Days After Car Crash

HAILEY, July 4—Mrs. Joseph Olson, about 21, Boise, who was injured in a traffic accident Friday afternoon east of Richfield, died at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Hailey Clinical hospital. An attendant at the hospital said she never regained consciousness after the one-car accident between Carey and Richfield on highway 93 alternate. Mrs. Olson's death brings Magic Valley's traffic total to 19 for the year. It was the second traffic fatality of the year for Lincoln county. A witness to the accident said the 1938 Studebaker in which Mr. and Mrs. Olson were riding suddenly swerved on the highway and headed for the ditch and overturned. Both were taken to the hospital. The husband was released after being treated for cuts and bruises.

Olson told authorities while he was dazed that he did not know who was driving but authorities believe Mrs. Olson was at the wheel and dazed. She did not have a driver's license.

Mrs. Olson, the former Maxine Marie McCoy, was born June 4, 1936. She was married to Joseph McCoy three years ago.

Surviving besides her husband are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. McCoy, Oregon, and a brother, Morris McCoy, Twin Falls.

Funeral services are pending at the McGoldrick funeral home.

Homes Hunted

POCAHELLO, July 4 (AP)—Between 40 and 45 homes are being sought in the area for men who will receive training at the national reactor plant station on prototypes of atomic-powered vessels, the navy said. The men, scheduled to arrive Sunday, are the last of a group of 50. Most have families.

Hurricane-Stricken Families Start Moving Back to Homes

LAKE CHARLES, La., July 4 (AP)—William W. Wilson, southwest director of civil defense, pronounced the hurricane-stricken town of Cameron, La., safe today for the return of families to return from inland refugee centers.

"But children by all means should be out of the area," Wilson said. "More than 800 soldiers, civilians, and Coast and federal workers labor at Cameron and other coastal towns and communities."

Cameron parish Sheriff Henry G. Gaudin said that 200 bodies had been counted and that a 200th body had been found. A Negro man—had been buried in a barbed wire fence near a Catholic church east of Cameron. City police are still missing.

Hurricane Audrey hit the Louisiana and Texas coasts a week ago today. Texas got off comparatively light—11 were killed—but the hurricane and a giant tidal wave also wiped out the towns and villages along the southwestern Louisiana coast.

Anthony Filiberto, Louisiana civil defense representative, said most of the work along the coast is directed now at eliminating hazards to health and cleaning up debris.

The bodies of human beings, 35,000 cattle and uncounted pigs, in addition to the food that spoiled, created a serious health problem on the coast.

Although Wilson said, children should stay out, Sheriff E. B. Carter of Cameron said some whole families have returned.

The sheriff said the two boys had walked out on the highway and hitched a ride back to Malta.

Magic Valley Greet Fourth of July Quietly; Several Celebrations Noted

Magic Valley, for the most part, greeted the fourth of July Thursday in a quiet manner. Only a few communities had organized celebrations for the day but a number of them have fireworks scheduled for Thursday night.

Among the communities with planned celebrations are Hailey, Wendell, Gooding and Rupert. Rupert's celebration is an annual event and covers several days. The celebration this year also includes the giving away of 140 homesteads on the north side on Friday.

The program Thursday started with street sports at 9 a.m. and was followed by a mile-long parade at 11 a.m. In the parade, in addition to floats, were the rodeo queen and her attendants and the Burley posse. The parade band also is presenting a day-long concert.

The annual Rupert rodeo will be held Thursday night with $2,250 in prizes being offered in addition to the regular purses. The rodeo will continue through Friday and Saturday nights.

The ceremony for the drawing of the homesteads will begin at noon Friday with a band concert. Mayor Glover Acock will welcome the visitors and Dale Stoller, president of

Blaze Blackens 15,000 Acres of Range in Valley

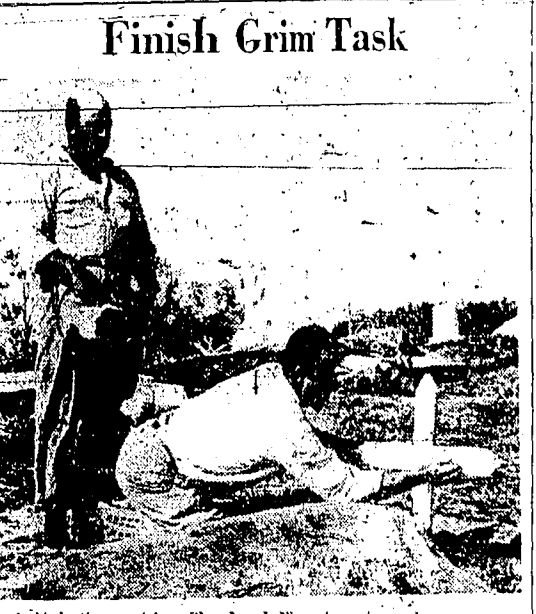

SHOSHONE, July 4—Fire, cutting a swath eight miles long and up to three miles wide, blackened between 10,000 and 15,000 acres of rangeland east of highway 93 Wednesday afternoon and night. The fire, bucked by 60 men from bureau of land management and Idaho Power company fire fighting crew, did not stop until it hit the Gooding-Milner canal. Although still being patrolled, the fire was brought under control at 2 a.m. Thursday. While the one large fire was being battled, two other small fires broke out in the same general area but were brought under control with little damage. No estimate has been made of the range blackened in the two smaller fires.

The 15,000-acre fire was started from highway 93 at 3:40 p.m. seven miles south of Shoshone. The blaze was spotted by the Notch butte lookout for the bureau of land management and crews from both Shoshone and Jerome swung into action. Because of the heavy growth of cheat grass on the range, the flames jumped the plowed fire guard along the road and swept across the desert.

During the night a report was received by the bureau of land management that the fire had jumped the canal but the water barrier served as a brake for the racing flames and halted them at the bank of the waterway. Seven truck tanks were used by the fire fighters in quelling the flames.

Both of the smaller fires also are believed to have been man caused since both, like the larger fire, were started close to the highway. One of the fires was located near the junction of highways 93 and 79 near the Perrine Memorial bridge. The other fire was located near the highway junction nine miles southwest of Jerome.

Members of the Idaho Power company crew who were fighting the small fire south of Jerome reported to the substation at Twin Falls that someone had seen a group of youngsters in a gray convertible starting a fire in that area. This information was passed on to Jerome and Twin Falls police.

As his brother watches, Charley J. Vincent erects wooden crosses on the graves of his stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bertrand, who were drowned in Grand Chenier, La., by hurricane Audrey. The death toll of the hurricane and its giant tidal wave is expected to reach 400. (NEA telephone)

The boy was scalded Wednesday morning when he fell into a washing machine at his home. The child had climbed a ladder near the machine and had toppled over into the scalding water. He was rushed to the hospital in Burley.

Idaho Enjoys Ideal Weather on Holiday

Idahoans today celebrated the 181st anniversary of their nation's declaration of independence with a July Fourth holiday which featured perfect vacation weather. Thousands of motorists were leaving towns and cities for traditional trips to picnic spots and recreation areas amid pleas from state officials that they observe safety on the roads. For many Gem state residents the holiday would be a brief one-day affair since stores, offices and other businesses were scheduled to reopen Friday.

But some Idahoans planned to take an extra day off on Friday to stretch the holiday to a four-day week-end.

All of Idaho's elected state officials except Gov. Robert E. Smylie planned a quiet stay-at-home celebration today. The governor spent part of his holiday in his office catching up on the pile of papers which accumulated during his absence from the state last week.

State police hope the short vacation for most residents would curb the traffic load on highways, but they still urged motorists to exercise "defensive driving" and "watch out for the other fellow."

Traditional fireworks displays, parades, boat races and mass picnics were scheduled for those persons who wanted to stay close to home rather than heading for the coast.

Debt Grows

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—The national debt at the end of June stood at $270,871,896.43, but new government borrowing has added about three billion dollars to the total since then.

The debt total was announced yesterday when the treasury department reported the government's financial position as of June 28—last business day of the 1937 fiscal year.

Trio of Kremlin Leaders Lose Jobs in Government In Shakeup of Red Party

MOSCOW, July 4 (U.P.)—Russia fired its dismissed party leaders from their top government posts today, clearing the decks for a major shakeup in the Kremlin. Less than 24 hours after the Communist party's decision was announced, the government dropped V. M. Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and Lazar Kaganovich as deputy premiers. It was the final disgrace for the three men who served alongside former Premier Josef Stalin and inherited his mantle upon his death. There still was no official indication whether the "anti-party group" would have to face court trials as well. Molotov, Malenkov and Kaganovich were "released" from the cabinet in a decree of the supreme Soviet presidium, the interim steering committee of Russia's parliament.

There was no immediate reference to Deputy Premier M. Z. Saburov and M. G. Peryukhin, who also lost their memberships in the party presidium in yesterday's announcement.

Malenkov was fired as a deputy premier and minister of electric power stations, the technical field he has held since he was removed as premier in 1955.

Molotov was fired as first deputy premier, a cut above Malenkov's post, and his simultaneous assignment as minister of state control. This is the ministry which supervises government operations.

Kaganovich lost his job as a first deputy premier. He has no departmental assignment in the cabinet.

To replace Malenkov as electric power stations minister, the supreme Soviet presidium appointed Alexei Sergeyevich Pavlenko.

Pavlenko was power stations minister until 1955 when he was pushed downstairs to make way for Malenkov.

Pavlenko became one of Malenkov's deputies in the power ministry in March, 1955, and two months later was promoted to be his "first deputy."

The firings were a clear-cut victory for communist party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev and his liberalization policy.

A 3,500-word party resolution accused the deposed men of the most severe misdeeds of party policy, but there was no suggestion of criminal activities.

NEWS BULLETINS

SANTIAGO, Cuba, July 4 (U.P.)—Government troops have left this provincial capital and other eastern cities for Palma Soriano where fighting has been reported on a farm near the Palma sugar mill. It was reported today.

WARSAW, July 4 (U.P.)—Polish sources reported today that former Minister V. M. Molotov is under house arrest in Moscow after his ouster from the Soviet Communist party leadership yesterday. The sources said Georgi Malenkov and Lazar Kaganovich—expelled with Molotov from the party directorship—are also under house arrest.

Floods, Wind Batter Large Areas of U. S.

By United Press

Floods surged across four states today and a new squall line pounded the northern plains, adding more moisture to already soaked farmlands.

The outbreak of violent weather also hit the Northeast last night and early today, dumping up to .75 of an inch of rain at Syracuse, N. Y., Burlington, Vt., and Mount Washington, N. H.

Tornado winds which reached velocities of 85 miles an hour battered central Ontario during the night, causing damages estimated at more than one million dollars.

Trees were uprooted, houses and barns blown down, and power lines downed at Sutton, Kawalek, Roches Point, Pefferlaw, Churchville and Southland north of Toronto.

A twister swooped out of a squall line in Iowa, injuring two persons, destroying four homes and causing other extensive damage at Lake City, about 12 miles northeast of Carroll, Ia.

A child received face cuts when he was hit by debris from the tornado and a man suffered a gashed head.

Object Sighted

Members of the Twin Falls sheriff's office said Wednesday night a strange object seen in the sky by persons from Wendell to Twin Falls was evidently a weather balloon.

The object was reported to have been seen at Wendell about 1:30 p.m. Persons there observing it with a telescope said it was shining while the sun was high but became a dark color after the sun went down. Members of the Twin Falls sheriff's office also observed the object through binoculars and reported they were almost certain it was a weather balloon.

The balloon was observed by state patrolmen at the Hollister port of entry. One observer said the balloon "seemed to hang in one spot for a long time."

The object was reported to the sheriff's office at 8:15 p.m.

Ike Enjoying Golf Holiday

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 4 (U.P.)—President Eisenhower chose golf over firecrackers today as he enjoyed a quiet Fourth of July week-end at his farm.

The President was on the Gettysburg Country club course shortly before 9 a.m., teeing off for 18 holes of golf in warm, breezy weather.

Playing with Eisenhower was his Gettysburg neighbor and old friend, Brig. Gen. Arthur S. Nevins—The President's physician, Dr. Howard Snyder, rode around the course with the twosome.

Eisenhower, who returned to Washington from a four-day week-end at the farm Monday night, flew here last night for another four-day respite. Mrs. Eisenhower drove to the farm.

Fourth of July Road Toll Starts Grim Upward Climb

By United Press

Americans opened the Fourth of July holiday with a relatively good safe driving market today, but officials expected the casualty pace to quicken and boost the traffic toll beyond the 500 mark. The National Safety council stood by its estimate of 535 deaths on the highway during the four-day holiday, despite the early lag in traffic fatalities. Drownings and miscellaneous accidents are expected to take many more lives as millions of persons headed for holiday fun at beaches, resorts, picnics and family get-togethers.

A United Press tally from 6 p.m. yesterday to noon EDT showed at least 40 persons killed in traffic accidents. There were five drownings, one aircraft death, and six persons died in miscellaneous mishaps for a total of 52.

Oklahoma had five traffic deaths, New York four, California and Indiana three each, and New Mexico, Pennsylvania and West Virginia two each.

City, county and state police were out in full force today in an effort to keep the traffic toll to a minimum. Authorities in many areas were ordered to "get tough" with traffic violators.

The 102-hour holiday period began at 6 o'clock last night and ends at midnight Sunday. The safety council estimate of 535 deaths represents 70 more than the normal toll of 465 traffic fatalities for a similar non-holiday period in July.

Fair weather over much of the nation helped spur travel, and it was estimated some 45 million cars will crowd the highways during the long week-end.

Weathermen predicted fair skies for the Pacific Northwest, the central plains, the northern Great Lakes, the Mississippi valley and most of New England. Hot weather is seen for the Southern plains, the Southwest and the southern Great Lakes.

Many Americans followed the lead of President Eisenhower and spent the holiday at home to take in parades, fireworks displays and sports events.

But a possible record number of Americans look to the roads today. In cars, buses, planes and trains. Northeast Airlines reported record business and Greyhound bus lines said holiday traffic was heavier than normal. The Chesapeake and Ohio railways ordered extra standby equipment to handle its travel load.

The first reported fireworks accident came from Sidney, Neb., where John Discoe, 15, popped a firecracker in his mouth in the belief it was some hard candy. The cracker exploded when he bit on it, blasting away part of one tooth and burning the inside of his mouth.

Authorities in all states ordered maximum police enforcement to keep traffic in line.

Bellwood was born at Sugar City, Ida., and was graduated from the University of Idaho in 1938. He received his law degree in 1941 from the University of Michigan.

He practiced law for a time at Halley, then joined the army and served in the Pacific theater. Upon release from duty as a captain he began the practice of law at Rupert. He has been Minidoka county prosecutor since 1950.

Woman, 61, Is Hurt in Crash

Condition of Mrs. Winifred Poe, 61, Kimberly, injured Wednesday night in a collision at an intersection three miles southeast of Kimberly, was described as "good" Thursday by an attendant at Magic Valley Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Poe was the driver of a 1957 Chevrolet which collided with a 1955 Plymouth driven by Frank Wroblewski, 55, who is visiting in this area from Nebraska. Wroblewski and his son, Joseph Wroblewski, 13, were taken to Twin Falls Clinic hospital for treatment and released.

The collision occurred at an unmarked intersection which is obscured by high weeds.

State Patrolman R. E. Young said citations are pending. Damage to each vehicle was estimated at $1,000.

Tax Collections Up

POCAHELLO, July 4 (U.P.)—Bannock county Treasurer Aileen P. Mullen reports total tax collections in 1956 were $2,658,960, more than a quarter million dollars more than 1955 collections of $2,408,282.

Police Chief Makes Plea for Area Teen-Age Cooperation

Twin Falls Police Chief Howard W. Gillette Wednesday issued a statement appealing to the 95 per cent of Magic Valley's teen-agers he termed "good drivers" to help sell the remaining five per cent "on the error of their ways." His statement follows:

"Open Letter to the Teen-Agers of Magic Valley"

"Hi Kids,

"We have been given a pretty bad time the last couple of weeks, haven't we? I want you to know that I believe that you boys and girls are the number one asset of this valley. I know that the vast majority of you are good drivers. If you have a valid driver's license and a lawful automobile, you are welcome to drive in Twin Falls and drive on any street in our city. It is true that our police officers have had to arrest a number of you for traffic violations. That is not because we dislike you but for your protection and the protection of the public.

"I ask that the 95 per cent of you who are good drivers and follow the rules of safe driving, help me sell the remaining five per cent on the error of their ways, such as only mufflers, driving side by side in a manner which obstructs traffic, and other shenanigans which are making it rough on all of us.

Crash Victims Ask Damages Of $188,920

Edward R. Noble and Richard Brown, Fort Wayne, Ind., filed separate lawsuits in Twin Falls district court Wednesday against Archie Parish for a total of $188,920 damages they allege were the result of an automobile accident near Murlough in July, 1955.

Both complaints against Parish are similar except for the amount of damages requested. Both Noble and Brown state that at 1 a.m. July 10, 1955, they were changing a wheel on the rear of a 1953 Ford when a car driven by Parish hit the vehicle and the two men. They claim the tall lights on the Ford were burning as was the left rear turn signal light.

Both men claim they were injured due to Parish's "careless, negligent reckless and heedless" handling of his automobile.

Brown claims to have been injured both internally and externally. He states he was permanently injured about the legs and lower extremities of the body. He says that both of his legs were broken, and he received cuts, contusions and lost a great amount of blood.

Brown seeks $100,000 for hospital expenses, $2,000 for physician and surgeon's bills, $720 for loss of employment while injured, and $80,000 additional damages.

Noble claims both his legs were broken and he has to wear braces. He says he received a brain concussion and a broken left thumb. He said he is a permanent cripple as a result of the accident.

He requests $800 for hospital bills, $400 doctor and surgical bills, $4,200 for loss of employment and $100,000 other damages.

Both men are represented in Twin Falls by Fred A. Schwartz, Twin Falls attorney.

Both Sides in Rights Battle Plan Strategy

WASHINGTON, July 4 (U.P.)—Southwest Congressmen today they might pass-up an opportunity to filibuster against the civil rights bill if agreement can be reached to modify what they regard as its most objectionable features.

The battle over the legislation, already passed by the house and placed on the senate calendar by an unusual parliamentary maneuver, will be joined Monday after the holiday week-end.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California served notice of this filibuster yesterday after President Eisenhower related that the measure was moderate in its approach to the problem of ending segregation and that it was not intended to prevent anyone from "illegally" (Continued on Page 2, Column 3)

U. S. Demands Perfect Plans On Inspection

LONDON, July 4 (AP)—The United States has told Russia an absolutely perfect inspection system must be agreed upon before it will agree to a suspension of nuclear weapon tests.

American disarmament delegate Harold E. Stassen added, however, that the United States is confident an inspection system can be worked out that will prohibit any cheating or tampering, provided all nations cooperate.

Stassen elaborated at yesterday's meetings of the U. S. disarmament subcommittee on the U. S. offer to halt bomb tests for 10 months as part of a limited arms reduction treaty. He promised to complete his proposals Friday.

The U. S. plan coupled the suspension of nuclear tests with agreement to stop assigning nuclear materials for arms beginning in 1959. In the past the Western nations have insisted that nuclear arms production must be stopped at the same time any ban on tests went into effect.

A Russian delegate, Valerian A. Gorin, declined comment on Stassen's latest remarks. When the American first made the proposal for a 10-month test ban, however, he said he was happy the West was making an effort to achieve a solution to the test issue. Top-level Soviet reaction was awaited from Moscow.

Detailing the U. S. plan, Stassen proposed that the big powers should begin transferring their stocks of fissionable material to civilian use within a month after the controlled ban on nuclear weapon tests goes into effect.

He said atomic and hydrogen bomb tests should be suspended one day after the ratification of a limited disarmament treaty. International groups of inspectors, with scientific equipment to detect nuclear blasts, would be stationed at strategic points in the United States, Britain, Russia and the Pacific to make sure the test ban was not violated.

LITTLE LIZZY

Why is it the guy who didn't have time to vote, has several hours to explain his solution to our foreign problems?

Both Sides in Rights Battle Plan Strategy

Interfering with a citizen's right to vote.

Both Southern opponents, led by Senator Russell, D. Ga., contend the measure goes far beyond this. They say it would enable the government to force integration in Southern schools and racial mixing in other public places.

Knowland said that at Monday's session he will move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the civil rights bill—a motion that is subject to being filibustered.

However, Russell told him that in the early stages of the discussion of the motion, "the speaker will be of no greater length than those ordinarily made" by senators—to make their position clear.

Senator Ervin, D. N. C., is expected to lead off for the Southerners with a speech opposing the new authority. The bill would give the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions against violations of voting rights or other civil rights.

Under this enforcement procedure, persons accused of violating such injunctions could be jailed for contempt of court without a jury trial.

Russell said different senators would speak on different aspects of the measure in order that it may be clearly understood. But he said their speeches would not be of "unusual length."

Asked by newsmen if Southerners might decide not to filibuster against the motion to take up the bill for debate, Russell said he wanted to find out what, if any, agreement might be worked out before making any commitment.

He emphasized that his goal is to defeat the bill, but he said he also wanted to modify what he regards as its "vicious" provisions if possible.

Solon Lashes "Hero" Label In GI's Case

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—The army buddy of GI William G. Girard told investigators in a sworn statement Girard "acted" as a Japanese woman to come close, then aimed at her from the shoulder and fired. Rep. Omar Burleson said today. The woman died as a result of the shot. Burleson tapped the painting of Girard as a "hero."

The Texas Democrat is chairman of a house foreign affairs subcommittee that investigated the Girard case. He told the United Press he has been probed by official sources on the controversial affair, and disclosed full details of the shooting.

Girard, 21-year-old GI from Ottawa, Ill., is accused by Japan of manslaughter for the death of the Japanese woman, Mrs. Naka Sakai. The United States after an argument over the case, waived jurisdiction to Japan to try Girard. This has touched off a furor in this country and a move in congress to cancel agreements covering trials of servicemen abroad.

Burleson said Girard has been painted as a "hero" in this country but actually he played a "smart aleck" role on the Japanese woman, Mrs. Naka Sakai, and should be punished for it.

Wants American Trial
He said however that Girard should be tried by an American court martial, not a Japanese court. He said a U. S.-court martial would give Girard punishment "considerably more severe than that meted out by a Japanese court."

The supreme court will hear arguments Monday on whether Girard should be turned over to Japan for trial. A federal judge has said he should be tried by U. S. court martial. The high court ruling will be on the jurisdictional issue rather than the crime itself. However the facts in the case may have a bearing on supreme court action.

Senators Lash Plan to Share Bomb's Secret

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—Senator Knowland, R. Calif., said today he doubts congress would readily agree to furnish Russia with information on how to make a "clean" hydrogen bomb.

Senator Mansfield, D. Mont., said, "I would be careful about giving our formula away."

President Eisenhower said at his news conference yesterday that some top nuclear scientists had told him they favor telling Russia, and other nations how to make a "clean" bomb as soon as the U. S. proves it knows how to produce one.

Eisenhower didn't state his views on the questions, but he indicated he was willing to accept the guidance of the scientists.

Earlier, Eisenhower noted that some scientists have informed him that they had succeeded in eliminating about 86 per cent of radioactive fallout of such devices, and that, given another four or five years of testing, they could produce a fully "clean" bomb.

Any such transfer of weapons information would require amendment of the atomic energy act. Knowland, Republican floor leader, indicated that might be difficult to get.

"I doubt that congress would be prepared to turn over any weapons information to the Soviet Union," he said.

Mansfield, acting Democratic leader, said in a separate interview: "Before we agreed to give them any information, we certainly should have an ironclad agreement, backed by escape-proof inspection arrangements, to do away with the building of the bigger bombs and a disarmament plan which would cut down defense expenditures for all countries."

Desert Survivor Back With Folks

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 4 (AP)—Mrs. Clifford White was reunited with her parents today for the first time since she spent six days lost in a Texas desert.

Her husband died of exposure seeking help when their station wagon became stuck in a Big Bend national park in Texas.

"Pop—I'm so glad to see you!" Mrs. White told her father, Henry Schindler, when she arrived here by plane last night.

"Out there in that canyon I never dreamed I would see such a reception," she said.

Mrs. White's face was still badly blistered from the hot desert sun. She said she was "just beginning to realize" what had happened and was still in "sort of a daze."

Chinese Cabinet Officer Recants

TOKYO, July 4 (AP)—The second of three ministers in communist China's cabinet who have been accused of "right wing activities" bowed to red pressure and recanted, Peiping radio reported today.

Communications Minister Chang Po-chun presented himself before the Anhwei province delegation of the national people's congress meeting in Peiping yesterday and bitterly lashed his own "anti-party, anti-socialist" activities.

Forestry Minister Lo Lung-chi who failed to appear for another tongue-lashing from the Kiangsi province delegates yesterday had "apologized" for his actions earlier on June 27.

Violence Flares In Egypt Voting

CAIRO, July 4 (AP)—Sixteen persons were reported killed at a village polling place and violence flared elsewhere yesterday in the Egyptian national elections. The national assembly being elected was partly hand-picked in advance by the Nasser regime and pledged to carry out its policies.

It said the argument grew in intensity and both groups began firing shots. Besides the 16 reported killed several others were wounded.

Five Killed in Car Crack-up Near Ontario

Injured and under treatment in the Holy Rosary hospital here was Richard Newlan, 29, of Payette. Hospital attendants said he had a compound fracture of the jaw and severe cuts.

Johnson died late in the afternoon, several hours after the smash-up, which killed the four others instantly.

Officers were able to identify Miss Logan only after hours of checking. They said they found a purse in the car in which she was riding but the only identifying mark it carried was the name, "Nan."

Haynes said Berg and Newlan were the drivers of the two cars, which smashed together with such force that the front ends of both vehicles were telescoped.

Johnson was riding in the back seat of the Berg car, with Mrs. Berg riding in front with the driver.

In Newlan's car were Miss Logan and Baker with all three riding in the front seat. Haynes said investigation indicated that Berg's car was westbound and Newlan's eastbound.

The accident occurred on U. S. highway 30 about two miles north-west of the Olds Ferry junction, across the Snake River from Weller. The accident scene was about 13 miles northwest of Ontario.

Baker was intermountain division superintendent of the Railway Express agency and officials of the agency in Salt Lake City said he left there Monday night on a business trip.

Six Senators Act to Block Law on Court

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—Six senators have begun a drive to keep Congress from becoming a "super-court" to direct the high court on how to interpret the constitution.

The six are sponsoring an amendment to liberalize legislation, recently approved by the senate judiciary committee, to maintain the confidential nature of FBI reports. A similar bill has been approved by the House judiciary committee.

The amendment was introduced yesterday by Sen. Wayne—Morse, D. Ore., who complained that the senate committee acted too quickly in approving the bill. Co-sponsors are Sens. Richard L. Neuberger, D. Ore., James E. Murray, D. Mont., Joseph S. Clark, D. Pa., Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., D. Mo., and William Langer, R. N. D.

The supreme court ruled last month that defendants in criminal cases have the right to examine FBI reports of government witnesses against them.

Under both the senate and House bills, the trial judge would be authorized to examine the pertinent FBI report beforehand to determine what part, if any, need to be shown to the defendant.

Morse proposed an amendment to compel the government to show the judge "any record" detailing or summarizing a witness' previous statements to the FBI.

He said he would not be surprised if the courts held that the administration-backed FBI bill violated the constitutional guarantees of a fair trial for defendants in criminal cases.

Morse also called for a clarification of the role of the trial judge in determining what FBI material is necessary to the defense of the accused. He said the judgment of the trial judge should not be substituted for that of the defense attorneys.

Nixon read a message from President Eisenhower, who said millions of children are suffering from lack of adequate classrooms. The President recalled that he had repeatedly urged a temporary program of federal aid, to help build more schools.

"This legislation should encourage greater state and local efforts for school construction and provide federal help without federal control under a limited program with a definite date of termination," the President said.

"I am deeply anxious that the house of representatives promptly pass such legislation. The important point is that this should be done now."

Nixon said the school legislation had made slow progress because of the segregation issue, "fear of federal control," and debate over the formula for allocating funds to the states.

Nixon Seeing No Change on 'Aid' Measure

PHILADELPHIA, July 4 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said last night he has abandoned hope for enactment this year of a federal school aid bill.

"There is at best a 50-50 chance that the bill will pass the house during this session," Nixon told the National Education association convention. "There is virtually no chance that it will pass the senate before adjournment."

Nixon read a message from President Eisenhower, who said millions of children are suffering from lack of adequate classrooms. The President recalled that he had repeatedly urged a temporary program of federal aid, to help build more schools.

"This legislation should encourage greater state and local efforts for school construction and provide federal help without federal control under a limited program with a definite date of termination," the President said.

"I am deeply anxious that the house of representatives promptly pass such legislation. The important point is that this should be done now."

Nixon said the school legislation had made slow progress because of the segregation issue, "fear of federal control," and debate over the formula for allocating funds to the states.

Aircraft Carrier Fire Kills Four

MARSEILLES, France, July 4 (AP)—A huge fire broke out on the 40,000-ton U.S. aircraft carrier Lake Champlain here yesterday. Four persons, three of them crew members and one a French dock worker, were reported killed.

The Lake Champlain and two destroyers arrived here at 8 a.m. today from Italian waters for a 13-day visit to this Mediterranean port.

Ninety minutes after its arrival it began unloading automobiles onto launches which were to carry them to land.

Fire broke out in one of the launches and quickly spread to the after end of the carrier. Smoke rose several thousand feet into the air while spilled gasoline began flaming on the water itself.

French fireboats came to the carrier's assistance and put out the fire which lasted from 8:30 a.m. to 11:05 a.m.

Funds Okayed For Repairing Idaho Capitol

BOISE, July 4 (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie said he was informed yesterday that President Eisenhower has signed a bill enabling Idaho to use an endowment fund income to renovate the state capitol.

Smylie said he was informed of the President's action in a telegram from Howard (Pyle), White House aide.

The measure, titled senate bill 1794, amends the Idaho admission act allowing the state to use income from public building endowment funds to renovate the capitol building. The original act earmarked the money for new construction only.

The 1957 legislature appropriated $125,000 from the funds for the renovation with the stipulation that congress give the necessary authority.

Smylie said he was "gratified" that the act was signed on the 77th anniversary of the signing of the state's admission act by President Grover Cleveland.

Smylie said he issued instructions immediately to Commissioner of Public Works Arthur Warren to advertise for bids on the cleaning, renovation and repair of the building.

Soviet Boss Strengthens Position by Party Shakeup; Liberal Policies Seen

MOSCOW, July 4 (AP)—Communist party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev can be expected to follow up the smashing victory for his liberalization policy with a major shakeup of the Soviet government, Western observers said today.

The communist party yesterday accused three top members of anti-party activities and ousted them from the party presidium. They were former Premier Georgi Malenkov, former Premier Vyacheslav M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich. But their high jobs in the government, technically distinct from party posts, have not yet called in question. But it was almost certain they would have to leave the cabinet as well in light of Khrushchev's ascendancy although they may not have to answer for "anti-party" activities before the law.

A 3,500-word party resolution accused them of the most severe misdeeds of party policy, but there was no suggestion of criminal activities.

There was no immediate word of the whereabouts of Molotov, Malenkov or Kaganovich. They have not been seen in public here for more than a week.

The first effects of the shakeup were these:

- Party Secretary Dmitri Shepilov, who joined the anti-party group last job as one of Khrushchev's assistants in the party secretariat and his alternate member in the central committee.
- First Deputy Premier M. Z. Saburov, 66-year-old two-time deputy premier and former state planning commission chairman, was quietly dropped from the presidium.
- O. W. Kuusinen, last director of the central committee, was dismissed in 1943 under wartime pressure from the allies, joined the presidium after heading the disbanded Karelo-Finnish republic in 1944. The presidium lost its only Jew as planning chief last December.
- Marshal Georgi Zhukov, Russia's defense minister, was promoted to full membership in the presidium. He is the first professional soldier so honored.
- Mrs. Ekaterina Putilova, chairman of the Moscow district party, was similarly promoted. She became the first woman with full membership.
- N. O. Ignatov, former interior minister under executed secret police Chief Lavrenti P. Beria, was removed from isolation in the Bashkir republic in central Asia to the presidium.
- A. W. Kuznetsov, last director of the central committee, was dismissed in 1943 under wartime pressure from the allies, joined the presidium after heading the disbanded Karelo-Finnish republic in 1944. The presidium lost its only Jew as planning chief last December.
- All of these were changes within the presidium, which is the constitutional apex of the government leadership although many of the responsibilities are mingled.
- Foreign observers in Moscow recognized the expulsions as clear confirmation of what has been generally termed abroad the Khrushchev line—an domestic and foreign policy, and consequently a major victory for Khrushchev himself.
- Most of the policies of Molotov and the others have been accused of opposing Khrushchev.
- Resumption of friendship with Yugoslavia.
- Normalization of relations with Japan.
- Meetings between Eastern and Western leaders at Geneva.
- The disarmament negotiations.
- Conclusion of an Austrian peace treaty.
- Liberalization of relations with Europe, particularly Poland.
- The domestic policies on which they differed included criticism of Josef Stalin and reorganization and decentralization of Soviet industrial management.

Senate Approves Vets' Pay Rules

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the White House a bill to allow veterans of opposing sides to draw compensation for service-connected disability from the veterans' administration at the same time they receive social security benefits.

The provision was included in a bill extending for one year the time in which disabled persons may apply for retroactive benefit rights for disability and old age insurance. The new deadline will be June 30, 1958.

One-Man Riot

CHICAGO, July 4 (AP)—A man fell to the floor, three shots rang out and smoke filled the lobby of the Palmer house hotel.

It wasn't a crime. Officials said a guard had slipped and dropped his barrel of anti-burglar devices. Three blank cartridges were detonated and a sulphur bomb exploded in the bag.

Russell, 'Ike' May Meet on 'Rights' Issue

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell said today he would welcome an opportunity to discuss the civil rights bill "man-to-man" with President Eisenhower.

But the Georgia Democrat, leader of the Southern bloc, pledged to a last-ditch fight against the bill in the senate, declined to say whether he will seek a conference with the president.

The Willing

At a news conference yesterday, Eisenhower opened up the possibility of such a meeting. He said he always was willing to discuss the highly controversial legislation with his opponents. But he said Russell has never given him any oral or written message on it himself.

"I would welcome any opportunity to discuss this matter with President Eisenhower, either man-to-man, or with one of his legal advisers present," Russell later told reporters. The senator refused further comment.

The senate fight on Eisenhower's civil rights program, which has been approved by the house, is scheduled to open Monday.

Senate Republican leader William Knowland gave formal notice yesterday he will move to bring the bill before the senate early Monday afternoon.

Russell Ready

Russell and other senators from the south said they would be ready. But Russell indicated Southerners will not start a full-blown filibuster in the first motion—which will be to take the bill from the calendar and formally lay it before the senate.

He told the senate that Southerners, in what he referred to as the early discussion, "will make speeches a 'no greater length than usual' to make a record." He later told reporters this meant about 20 speeches of an hour to an hour-and-a-half each on different features of the bill.

Compromise Hope

Russell said he hoped there might be "some meeting of the minds" in provisions the Southerners "consider most vicious."

Such a strategy by the Dixie bloc would postpone an "all-out filibuster" until the senate technically begins debating the bill itself.

But Sen. John Stennis, D., Miss., made clear Southern opponents will to their utmost by filibustering if necessary—to block senate approval of the measure.

"Our purpose is to defeat the bill and we will do it by whatever legislative means we can," he said.

Their main weapon, he added, will be to expose it fully in debate.

They Helped With Neighborhood Circus

Circus Is Presented by Eight Youngsters in Neighborhood

Eight children in the 1400 block of Fourth avenue east, with the help of parents and friends, prepared a circus that featured acrobats, trapeze act, calypso number, and a Sunday-sulted master of ceremonies. The show, called the "Junior Gem Circus," was staged by the children to raise money for the cerebral palsy school. Although the youngsters had only one show, they had such circus refreshments as soft drinks, popcorn and candy bars ready for about 20 hungry spectators. They raised a total of $3.70 but said they would contribute $4 toward the school. Starring in the performance were Patricia Harrison and Sharon Madron, trapeze; Kathryn McIntosh, acrobat; and Brenda Madron, Glenda Wickham and Catherine Holm in a calypso number.

In another trapeze number, Brenda Madron and Glenda Wickham were starred. No circus is complete without clowns and they were portrayed by Ann Gribble and Catherine Holm. Master of ceremonies for the circus was Ricky Holm. READ TIMES-NEWS WANT ADS.

Ebasco Given Sharp Rap by Two Senators

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—Two senators said yesterday that Ebasco Services, Inc., has obtained information which government officials refused to give to a senate investigating committee.

Senators Kefauver, D. Tenn., and O'Mahoney, D. Wyo., said this at a hearing held by the senate judiciary antitrust and monopoly subcommittee. The group is probing the role of Ebasco in getting tax write-offs for power companies.

Officials of the New York engineering consultant firm were questioned in detail on information they obtained from George English, interior department power division employee, about applications for office of defense mobilization (ODM) tax write-offs.

English makes recommendations which go through the interior solicitor's office to ODM for final action. Subcommittee Chairman Kefauver sought to show that Ebasco got from English advance information as to whether the applications would be granted, and on the size of the write-offs.

The Ebasco witnesses claimed a right to get such information on behalf of their clients.

O'Mahoney said the subcommittee was unable to get information in connection with two applications by the Idaho Power company from Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton and Assistant Secretary (now solicitor) Elmer Bennett. Bennett claimed "executive privilege." O'Mahoney added, "Yet, he said, Ebasco was able to obtain tax write-off information."

"This is an extraordinary illustration of the power exerted by those representing applicants," he declared.

Kefauver said the committee was refused information about consultations between ODM chief Gray and White House aide Sherman Adams in connection with the Idaho Power company case.

"Yet Mr. English gave information to you," Kefauver told an Ebasco witness.

Big Fire Sweeps Ontario District

ONTARIO, Ore., July 4 (AP)—A destructive fire broke out during pre-dawn hours in Ontario today and officials believe damage will exceed $100,000.

The blaze was at the Benson glass shop in Ontario's east side business district.

Fire Chief Bob Pahl said the blaze may have been caused by defective wiring. All of the city's fire equipment was sent to fight the flames. An hour after the Fourth of July blaze began about 4 a. m., the front wall of the structure on U. S. highway 30 began to bulge and fireman feared it would topple.

No Time

LIVERPOOL, England, July 4 (AP)—An obviously winded and perspiring man rushed into the Savoy bar just before closing time last night so the bartender offered him a beer on the house.

Just as the latecomer raised the brew to his lips a uniformed prison guard rushed in and collared his escaped prisoner.

The guard led him off before he drank the beer.

Plane Crashes

Bond Market Getting Tighter After Long Spell of Weakness

NEW YORK, July 4 (U.P.)—Those conspicuous victims of tight money and fear of more inflation—federal, corporate and municipal bonds—seem to be digging in for at least a holding action.

The prices of the older ones have taken quite a shellacking this year. The interest rates that must be offered to sell new ones have risen steadily.

Sometimes underwriters have had a sorry time moving them into investors' hands. And sometimes communities and corporations find the rates too stiff to pay, and have to forego the improvements or expansion they'd like to make. Even the U. S. treasury finds the high interest it would have to pay on a long term bond unacceptable and sticks to the short and medium term market.

But this week and last bond dealers have seen some sign of a halt to the downward trend in prices and signs that the peak of interest charges may have been reached—at least for the moment.

One reason could be that yields on bonds have soared so high that now they top those on many blue chip stocks, thus attracting investors to the bond market.

Another is that fear of a big new surge of inflation which would push stock prices higher a few weeks back has abated a bit for the moment. Inflation fears make investors sell fixed-income bonds and buy speculative stocks.

If runaway inflation is to be avoided—and Washington money managers vow that they are set on stopping it—bonds at high yields will look more attractive to investors, and common stocks as a hedge against inflation will look attractive only if the prospect for higher earnings and dividends is bright.

Investment return on top rated corporate bonds has risen in recent weeks as high as 4.85 per cent. Bonds with a rating somewhere under the top bring yields as high as six per cent. This is a striking rise in the last year and a half. In January, 1955, the highest rated corporate bonds averaged three per cent.

As interest rates on new offerings rises in response to tight money, the prices of older bonds drop to bring their yields into line.

Interest rates on bonds are fixed. They pay the same year after year. Yield, on the other hand, is the return you get on the amount of money the bond actually costs you when you buy it in the market place.

Thus, the U. S. treasury bond that cost $1,000 when new and bears a 2 1/2 per cent interest rate, will pay right-on-paying $25 a year in interest no matter what you paid for it then or now.

But the price of some of these older treasury issues have fallen as low as $850 in recent weeks. That is, you can get a $25 return on $850 rather than on $1,000.

If you hold the bond to maturity, no matter when it is bought, it will bring $1,000, just as it says it will.

Most commercial banks have U. S. treasury issues in their portfolios. Many sold large chunks of these holdings some time back, wanting the money to lend at much higher rates than the bonds were paying.

Now banks hesitate to sell these bonds because if the loss to them the sale would involve.

Bond prices will have to recover or commercial interest rates rise still higher before these bank holdings reach the market again in volume.

Bond dealers and underwriters hope that all these factors will combine to make bonds more attractive to investors and perhaps spell the end of climbing interest charges for communities and businessmen alike.

Lenders View No Advantage In New Rules

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—Government and business leaders expressed belief today that bankers will grant few loans to home owners under a new bill lowering FHA down payments.

In the view of bankers and others in the business community, the effects of the legislation will be to put greater pressure on the mortgage market.

Money Scarce

Funds for mortgages and other loans already are in short supply because of the tight money situation caused by demand outrunning the supply of money.

A government official said President Eisenhower was expected to sign the bill into law by late next week. The legislation closely follows recommendations made by the administration for lowering FHA down payments.

Rate Changed

Under present law the down payment on FHA-insured homes is five per cent up to the first $9,000 and 25 per cent above that.

Under the new bill, a home owner would put three per cent down payment on the first $10,000 of the mortgage, 15 per cent on the next $5,000, and 30 per cent on the remaining $4,000 up to the FHA limit of $20,000.

In effect, the bill makes mortgages more attractive to the borrower—not the lender.

In 1956, Ireland attracted $0.000 tourists, largest in her history and a 15 per cent increase over the previous year.

Sudden Tragedy

Clark S. Schuler, Lexington, Mass., weeps over the body of his friend, Richard Whiting, Colebrook, N. H., on an East Hartford, Conn., street. Whiting was killed while high-jacking with Schuler and another friend. He was struck down by the car piloted here, reported by police to have been operated by Donald L. Atkinson of Warehouse Point, Conn., who was unable to avoid Whiting. Schuler had to be forcibly removed by police officers. (NEA telephoto)

Report on Synod

WENDELL, July 4—Reports of the youth synod at Caldwell last week were given by Erma Ruby and Harry Brown at the Sunday meeting of the Presbyterian Westminster Fellowship.

Final plans were made for a hayride next Sunday. The group will leave the church at 8:30 p.m. Each member may bring a guest. Linda DePew and Julie Gates will be in charge of the punch. Barry Brown and Schel will plan for the place and the transportation. The hayride will be the last meeting of the group until Aug. 4.

Squirrel Causes Current Failure

MILFORD, Conn., July 4 (AP)—A squirrel plunged the Milford-Orange Stratford area into darkness for more than an hour this morning.

The animal ran across insulators of a high-power transmission line, getting off the automatic circuit breakers. This cut the power to two of the United Illuminating company's substations and darkened several hundred homes and the Sikorsky Aircraft company. Sparks started a grass fire and ignited a pole, but the flames were put out quickly by firemen.

The squirrel was electrocuted.

Sick Baby Gorilla Is Brought Back to Health by Nursemaid

By SEYMOUR TOPPING
BERLIN, July 4.—Living alone with a gorilla can be fun. So says Rosemarie Hoher, a 24-year-old German nurse with gentle brown eyes. She has just spent three months in a hospital isolation room, caring day and night for Knorke, an ailing baby gorilla. Knorke, aged 20 months and worth $5,000, is a hairy 28-pound bundle of mischief with a toothy flashing grin. The Berlin zoo flew him in from the French Cameroons to replace Pongo, a giant gorilla who was bayoneted to death in World War II by Russian soldiers. When Rosemarie first entered Knorke's life last March, he was a sad-eyed homesick little ape stricken with infectious paratyphoid fever. "It was a big risk," Rosemarie concedes. Rosemarie set up housekeeping for herself and the gorilla in a small, barely furnished sealed-off room at City hospital. "At first I was afraid of the little black devil because the first time I took him into my arms he bit me," said Rosemarie. "But soon I came to love him better than I would a child." And how did Knorke feel? "The first night he was afraid and sat up in his cage. He would whimper to cry every time I turned off the light. But then as we were together, he began to love and respect me. He knew I was helping him. If I tried to go out, he would follow me, whimpering. That was proof that he loved me." When Knorke was naughty, Rosemarie would spank him. Then he would put his face in his hands and after a while look up at me with big, disappointed eyes. Most of the time he would obey me after he had been spanked. "Knorke got steadily better on a diet of baby milk formula, soft boiled eggs and fruit." By day, Rosemarie and the gorilla would romp in the room. "He was lots of fun," she says. Knorke would duck under the bed, race around the room and then leap into Rosemarie's arms, burying his flat nose in her hair and gently nipping her ears. "The big problem for Rosemarie, like for any parent, came at night when Knorke would stubbornly refuse to go to bed. The nurse learned it was best to put him in a big bag and dump him directly into his wooden cage. The cage stood near Rosemarie's steel hospital cot. Knorke feels well now, although he will never be entirely free of paratyphoid. He has been taken to the zoo hospital where visitors can view him in a big glass cage. Rosemarie has gone along to take care of him. She works days at the zoo. When she leaves, Knorke cries for her like a child. To cheer up the gorilla, the zoo gave him a playmate. Oki, a young chimpanzee. But Knorke beat up Oki and the chimp had to be taken away. "I shall stay with Knorke for another one or two years, until he is almost grownup," says Rosemarie. "Then he won't need a mother."

Idea of Community Made up of Oldsters Starting to Catch on YOUNGTOWN, Ariz. (NEA)—He told me that the accommodations were fine, the food was good, yet he was very unhappy. He lived in an institution, regimented with rules and procedures, depriving him of freedom of movement. The reason for Youngtown is to give back to the oldsters everything they were robbed of. Old age is not intended to be a problem. At Youngtown we want it to be a satisfaction. Next day the Storeys were advertising their house trailer for sale and picking out the lot and floor plan for their home in Youngtown. Across the street from their house is Youngtown's seven-acre lagoon, well-stocked with fish. Storey hasn't had time to do much fishing, however. He has been busy organizing the Community Hobby Shop. Mrs. Storey enjoys writing and was instrumental in establishing "The Desert Call," a mimeographed weekly newsheet, which residents take turns editing. The Storeys are not unique in their activities. Mrs. Frances Lauman of Ithaca, N. Y., for example, is working on a directory which will give names, former hometowns and occupations, and hobbies of Youngtowners. Schleifer provided a community club house for use by the residents, and there's something doing every day. An informal seven-member governing body, chaired by William Radcliff, 64, works with Elmer Johns, 61, general manager of the Youngtown Land and Development company, in much the way a city council functions with a city manager. Two churches are now active. The Youngtown Community church, whose pastor, Dr. Henry Mills, is formerly of Oroville, Calif., has been in operation on a non-sectarian basis from the time the first couples moved into the area. The First Baptist church, with the Rev. William Merrick, formerly of Cleveland, as pastor, will soon move into the new building near the community club house where its services are held currently.

A half-century of age is the requisite for residing in Youngtown. Schleifer figured that if only a thousandth of one per cent of those beyond age 50 could be attracted to an idea of living in an area restricted to persons of similar circumstances, he would have a good start. Youngtown now has 385 residents. At the present rate of settlement, the community will have 600 persons by 1960. Big Ben, a New Englander who brought his asthma to Arizona nine years ago, is 57. In dealing with real estate in the booming Salt River valley (Phoenix and environs) he has forgotten his asthma. The usual infirmities of later years that bothered many of the residents in other climes have been minimized in this hamlet where there's too much enjoyment available to have time for sickness. Attitude, notes Schleifer, is a major factor in the heartiness of the inhabitants, who presently range in age from 50 to 81.

Norman C. Storey, 76, puts it bluntly: "Unless you're active, you die quick." He leased his agricultural machinery factory in Miami, Fla., and with his wife, Martha Mary, set a western course with a house trailer three years ago. After looking around Texas and California for a place to rid their house of wheels, the Storeys were visiting Phoenix when they heard of Youngtown. Storey called Schleifer. "We'd like to talk to you about Youngtown," Storey stated. Within two hours they were touring the curving streets of the village. The Storeys wanted to know the why of Youngtown.

In his Connecticut vocal short-takes, Big Ben told them: "Now, let's look. How do we treat old folks and pops today? At times they are useful as baby sitters and to borrow a dollar or two from. We've passed laws to recognize the uselessness of people over 60. We've passed laws to rob them of independence, of imagination, and of creative powers... laws designed to place them in idleness. "I once visited an old friend in a conventional old people's home."

Industry Hit By Slump as July Arrives

NEW YORK, July 4 (AP)—Vacations and a lull in industrial activity are combining to make July the low point of the year so far for important industries.

Some steel mills are closed for the Fourth of July holiday, cutting the industry's total output for the week. But slow ordering seems likely to cut it further during this month.

A few manufacturers got in their orders in time to beat Monday's controversial price hike of $4 a ton on average. And these presumably won't be ordering much until they use up their inventories. But such ordering was much smaller than the steel companies had expected.

Auto Orders Slow
The auto companies, among steel's prime customers, have been notably slow in ordering metal. And some auto plants have shut down or cut back production. Their annual slow period, while they change over to new models will come later.

Many metal working plants using steel will take one to three weeks' vacations this month, and some others next month. This mass vacation idea has spread rapidly in recent years.

Fabricators of copper, zinc and lead also will be closing for vacation periods. But their ordering of these metals has been slow for some time anyway.

Mines Closing
As a result, many zinc and lead mines have shut down. And copper mines have cut their work weeks to keep from piling up more slow-selling metal. All three metals have dropped in price in recent weeks.

Cutbacks in steel output, along with softening of the export demand, leads soft coal mines to lower their estimates of the year's production.

Coal miners will also be taking their annual vacation, cutting the month's total output to a minimum. The traditional summer holiday also starts this week in the textile industry.

Rockets Will Reach Upper Layers of Air

NEW YORK, July 4 (AP)—A huge Fourth of July skyrocket today goes seeking new freedoms and powers for mankind.

What it learns could help bring the new freedom of space travel. Or tap a new source of chemical energy high in the air over our heads. Or help control weather and disastrous storms.

This skyrocket is not the kind set off to awe and please kids.

Canada's launching an Aerobee H, powered to rise 100 to 200 miles and radio back knowledge of the skies. Scheduled for launching at Ft. Churchill, Canada, it will be the first of the biggest "shoots" in rocketry during the International Geophysical year.

Altogether IGY will see some 400 rockets big and little whooshed up by the United States, Russia, Britain, Japan, France and Australia to check on the earth's air and its remaining mysteries.

Air is a vital domain, especially the first six or seven feet in which we breathe. Our air rises hundreds of miles, with 99 per cent of it compressed within the first 20 miles.

Complex Chemical
The one-cent above that is a fantastically complex chemical and electrical cauldron created mainly by the sun's energy, explains Dr. Peter H. Wyckoff of the air force Cambridge research center, Boston.

This high thin air is the home of the ionosphere, the electrified air that makes radio broadcasts possible; the home of the dazzling northern lights, and a storage battery of vast chemical energy if it can be understood and put to use.

What happens up there vitally affects our weather too.

Balloons can rise about 30 miles, and tell much. Rockets supply probing fingers to learn a lot more. All knowledge will be shared among all nations cooperating in the IGY.

Farm Price Skid Noted in Month

BOISE, July 4 (AP)—Prices received by Idaho farmers declined four per centage points in the month ended June 15, the U. S. department of agriculture said yesterday, despite higher prices for dry beans and peas, hay, hogs, chickens and eggs.

Increases in those commodities, the department said, failed to offset lower prices received for grains, potatoes, beef and lambs.

The farm price index on June 15 stood at 234 per cent of the 1910-14 average, compared with 235 on June 15, 1956.

controversial civil rights bill passed by the house be submitted to a referendum.

Russell proposed that the bill not become effective, even if passed by the senate, until it is approved by a majority of the nation's voters.

Eisenhower said he does not know of any constitutional provision under which such a question could be submitted to a popular vote. He said issues of this kind should be handled by responsible officials in government.

One Indian Is Ready to Take Country Back From Paleface

WASHINGTON, July 4 (Special)—So far as at least one Indian leader is concerned, the rest of the people in this country can pack up now and take a return voyage on the good ship Mayflower.

Impressive, statuesque Cornelius Seneca, chief of the Seneca Nation of Indians of New York, has so expressed himself before a house appropriations committee. He's bitterly opposed to granting funds to start the Kinzua dam on the Allegheny reservoir project on the Pennsylvania-New York border. Reason: It'd flood out the home-land of his ancestors guaranteed personally to them by George Washington.

His views on being fed up with the non-Indians in this land came out in this exchange with Rep. Ramer Budge, R., Ida.

Ignorance of Nation Noted

MOSCOW, July 4 (AP)—Oklahoma's semi-centennial celebration has demonstrated "how very little many Americans know about the Soviet Union," two Moscow journalists reported today.

Pravda Correspondents F. Orekov and B. Strelnikov, who accompanied a Soviet delegation to the Oklahoma City Jubilee, wrote that Americans have a false impression of Russians "due to one-sided, hostile information about the Soviet Union which they have received for years."

They said Soviet-made television sets, radios, cameras and other goods exhibited in Oklahoma astounded Americans because of their high quality. Many Americans, they said, asked: "Are these things really made in the Soviet Union?"

They said they found Oklahomans to be hospitable, and many invited them into their homes for friendly conversations. However, they said, the U. S. state department made one visit impossible because of travel restrictions on the Soviet delegates.

MRS. RICHARD ALWYN BRIZEE

Donna Thompson And R. A. Brizee Vows Exchanged

MOSCOW, July 4—Donna Jean Thompson, daughter of Mrs. Dallas Thompson and the late J. O. Thompson, exchanged vows with Richard Alwyn Brizee, Twin Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Brizee, Twin Falls, in a garden ceremony on the afternoon of June 22 at the Thompson residence.

The Rev. Harry D. Johns, of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony in an arbor covered with full blooms of Paul scarlet roses. Two 10-foot standards with clusters of pink gladioli and white carnations radiating from the top and salmon and pink gladioli around the base, flanked the arbor. A bed of blooming roses formed the background on each side.

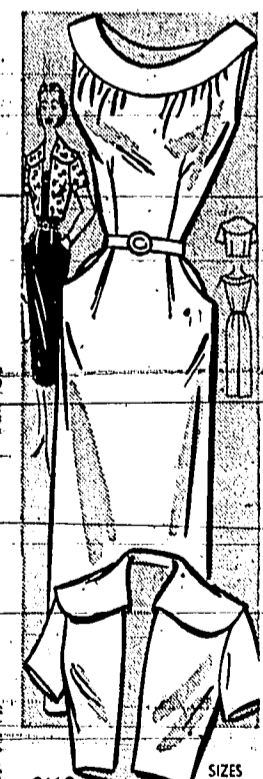

The yard was decorated with two trees of pink sprayed branches eight feet tall and tied with hundreds of pink satin bows, and two six-foot trees of pink peonies with clusters of pink and white gladioli at the base. A bed of pink geraniums and petunias in the center of the lawn contained a fountain made of white and pink gladioli and pink daisies. All of the bouquets in the decorations featured white sprayed gladioli highlighted with silver glass glitter.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Duane Thompson, wore a gown of white-Chantilly-lace and pure silk. The lace bodice featured long sleeves and a Sabina neckline outlined with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The skirt was of pure silk with two inserts of lace outlined with sequins. The bouffant skirt ended in a chapel length train. Iridescent and lace lilies held her nylon tulle illusion veil.

She carried a bouquet of three white orchids centered in garlands of stephanotis and phallanopsis and loops of imported-glamourette and accented with a group of Venetian glass blue birds.

Nancy Kyle was maid of honor. Dianas Carter, St. Maries; Marlene Clem, Lewiston; Martha Sullivan,

JEROME, July 4—Carolyn Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Adams, was united in marriage with DeWitt A. Moss, son of Mrs. Perne Moss and Steely L. Moss, all of Jerome, at 3:30 p.m. Saturday at the First Christian church. Tall baskets of white gladioli, green fern and candelabra with white tapers formed the background.

The grandmother of the bride wore a pale blue lace afternoon dress and a lavender orchid corsage.

All of the orchids for the wedding party were grown by the bride's father.

The base of the candelabra also was circled with lavender orchids.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Today, we celebrate the Fourth of July, the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. What most of us feel in the Declaration—is that phrase—"Created free and equal," and often we wonder just what it means for us. As we look about us in this workaday world, we know that there are many inequalities among the people—even though all are Americans, all, according to our cherished Declaration, "free and equal." How are we free? How equal?

I think we are free and equal in the right to be ourselves, to live according to our beliefs, according to the power within us. We are not born alike but come into the world as individuals—each with his peculiar set of talents, strengths and weaknesses, each into a peculiar environment with its own opportunities and disadvantages. Yet, because of the Declaration of Independence, this pronouncement of the rights of mankind, sealed with the blood of the patriots, each of us in this blessed land is free and has an equal chance to be and to become his best self. It is this privilege that we should consider well this Fourth of July.

It is the youth of our nation who should think about this seriously, and ask themselves if they are doing all they can to make use of this privilege of becoming their best selves. How much effort are they putting into the task of creating themselves? This is their personal responsibility. Nobody can carry it for them.

It is so easy to stay on the lower level of effort and reach the lower level of achievement. It is so pleasant always to take the easy way, the "snap" course, the hour at the game instead of at the study table. It is hard to keep at a problem until it is solved; tedious to memorize a set of formulae. And one is free to choose; possessing an equality of choice with all the other students.

Freedom of choice is a heavy responsibility. Some people do not want to be free for that reason. They want someone else to carry the load for them; to tell them what to do, how to do it, where to do it. And if they are not careful someone will do just that, and suddenly this freedom, this equality, so lightly considered, is gone and only then is the tragedy of this shirking of duty clear.

This country was built by men who were not afraid of responsibility, of hard work, of sacrifice and endurance. They took the hard way to freedom, to the creation of themselves as free and equal men.

You should never try to frighten or scare a child; instead, guard against fear. Fear of the dark or other fears make life miserable for a small child. Leadlet P. "Pari," explains. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P.O. Box 29, Station C, New York 16, N. Y.

Point of No Escape

Every Traffic Accident Has Point of No Escape

BY HILBERT BLACK

Before every traffic mishap there is a moment when the accident becomes unavoidable. . . the moment when the marked victims may become aware of impending danger—too late to do anything about it. To police and safety experts who study the causes of highway and street slaughter this is known as "The Point of No Escape."

For Motorist A it was a day of sunshine and fishing, grass stains on trousers and hot dogs roasted over charcoal. A beautiful summer holiday. Next year, he tells himself, he'll remember not to drive so far from home for the picnic. Now it is almost 6 p.m. and the roads are crowded with other homeward-bound merry-makers.

The kids are asleep on the back seat, exhausted after a day of frolicking. Mom rests her weary head on the back of the front seat. Motorist A opens the vent window fully and finds the slightly cool breeze relaxing.

There's a heavy date ahead for Motorist B this holiday evening. He's tired after the all-afternoon ballgame. The fellows from the shop sure showed up the gang from the front office.

Now it is almost 6 p.m. His girl friend expects him to pick her up at 7:30, and she's the type who doesn't have to wait for anybody. Motorist B has to shower and shave, and it's a good 20-minute ride to her house. C'mon traffic, let's get moving.

At exactly 6:05 p.m. Motorist A and Motorist B are both within 150 feet of the intersection, one coming from the east, the other from the south. They can't see each other because of the building at the corner. If there is a stop sign or a traffic light, it will be ignored, because Motorist A is day-dreaming and Motorist B is thinking about his date. Both are driving a little too fast for road conditions.

Then each glimpses the other—but they have reached "The Point of No Escape."

There is a screeching of brakes and two children are hurled violently toward the front of the car. Metal meshes with metal. Two cars overturn, mangle five humans. For them there may never be another date, another picnic.

This year's Fourth of July provides for many another "long" week-end. It's a time that can be filled with fun and excitement. Police hope that all those enjoying the holiday will make special efforts to steer clear of "The Point of No Escape."

New Election Finance Rule Contemplated

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—The senate rules committee approved yesterday a "clean elections" bill which would rewrite laws governing political campaign contributions and expenditures.

Chairman Thomas C. Hennings, D., Mo., said the committee voted 7 to 2 for the bill. He said he personally regards it as "too weak in some respects" but that it is the best measure that stands a chance of being approved.

The bill would: —Repeal the three-million-dollar limit now in effect on spending by national political committees. A 20-per-cent-vote formula would be established which would have set a ceiling of about 12 million dollars a spending by each party in last fall's presidential election.

—Provide similar "realistic" per-vote limits on spending by candidates for congress.

—Require congressional candidates to publish a list of committees "authorized" to raise funds for them. Other committees would continue to operate but would have to report their financial activities and make public their lack of authorization.

—Require all campaign committees—national, state and local—and congressional candidates to file financial reports with state authorities or the nearest federal district court, with the comptroller general and with the secretary of the senate or clerk of the house.

—Extend the terms of the proposed law to federal primaries, a proposal which has provoked strong southern opposition.

Foolproof Atoms Check Demanded

LONDON, July 4 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen said yesterday any inspection system set up to enforce an end to the H-bomb race must be painstaking and completely foolproof.

The U. S. delegate told the U. N. disarmament subcommittee the United States is confident that if all nations cooperate such a system can be so good as to prohibit absolutely all cheating of any consequence. He said that before the United States will agree even to suspend hydrogen bomb tests there must be agreement on the design, installation, operation and maintenance of such a system.

Flag Pulled Down By Swarming Mob

BUENOS AIRES, July 4 (AP)—A crowd of demonstrators marching through the streets after a left-wing radical party rally ripped down the stars and stripes from an American bank branch last night.

Police retrieved the flag after dispersing the crowd and arresting several demonstrators. The flag was torn down from a pole at the branch of the First National City Bank of New York. There was no immediate explanation for the action.

Flier Greets Wife After Long Sojourn in Rugged Mountain

NEW YORK, July 4 (AP)—Full amount of patience and common sense. Mrs. Rita Steeves looked at the beard, put her hands to her mouth and said: "How horrible!" The couple embraced at the foot of the steps leading from the plane. "The beard looks horrible," Mrs. Steeves said, "and he feels skinny." Steeves, 23, who parachuted into the Sierras on May 9 and finally walked to civilization July 1, said he still was 40 pounds underweight. "I sure have been eating a lot," he said. Mrs. Steeves, 21, had come from her home in Trumbull, Conn., to meet her husband. She was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Steeves, her husband's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Steeves, and about 10 other relatives. The attractive, blue-eyed blonde, nervously twirled a pair of harlequin-shaped eye glasses as she stood on the ramp at LaGuardia airport waiting for her husband's plane to arrive from Chicago. Asked about her husband's survival, she said: "I felt if anybody could, he could. He has the most tremendous best of the time by eating fish, garter snakes, and dandelions. Steeves also shot a deer with his 32-caliber pistol which he made last almost 20 days but had to share with marauding wolves. Steeves said he tried to get out of the valley but the passes were blocked by snow.

VISITING PARENTS KING HILL, July 4—Mr. and Mrs. William Stemper and family, Portland, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Groer. The aircraft carrier U.S.S. Saratoga is wide enough to sit both the U. S. United States and the S. S. America side by side on her deck.

Redleg, Brave Players Are Most Numerous on National League's All-Star Roster

CINCINNATI, July 4 (AP)—Every team in the National league will be represented on its All-Star club which will play the American leaguers in St. Louis next Tuesday but Cincinnati and Milwaukee top them all with six players each. The 1956 pennant winning Brooklyn Dodgers will have only three men on the 26-man roster, and they were chosen by their own manager, Walter Alston, who will manage the National league All-Stars. The fans, who elected the starting team, with the exception of the pitchers, by-passed the Dodgers.

Capitol Commission Faces NBA Expulsion

NEW YORK, July 4 (AP)—Julius Helfand suggested today that the National Boxing association expel and boycott the Washington state athletic commission if it permits the Floyd Patterson-Peter Rademacher heavyweight championship fight, Charles P. Larson, chairman of the Washington commission, has announced approval of the Patterson-Rademacher fight for Aug. 22 at Seattle.

Commissioners Undaunted by Boycott Threat

TACOMA, Wash., July 4 (AP)—The chairman of the Washington state boxing commission said Wednesday the commission won't wait to be expelled from the National Boxing association for its sanctioning of the Floyd Patterson-Peter Rademacher heavyweight title match in Seattle next month.

"We'll be very happy to resign," said Dr. Charles P. Larson, "if the NBA takes any official action without hearing from us."

The comment followed a demand in New York earlier Wednesday from Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York athletic commission, and of the World Championship Boxing committee, that the NBA expel the Washington commission and impose a ban on NBA fighters working in the state if it permits the Patterson-Rademacher fight to take place.

Noting that the New York commission is not a member of the NBA, Larson said he was puzzled by Helfand's demand.

"I'm sure the NBA will not take capricious action without hearing both sides," he said. "We're dues paying members but if they take action without consulting us and getting our reasons we'll be very happy to resign."

Jack Hurley, who is promoting the Aug. 22 match here, also fired a blast at Helfand.

Hurley said the fight was sanctioned by the state commission "because of public demand for it here."

"This is the first I knew I also had to have the match sanctioned by the president of the NBA and by Julius Helfand," he said.

Rademacher, winner of the Olympic heavyweight crown at Melbourne last November, but never has fought professionally.

The Cubs, Simon and Sally, are 16 weeks old, Campbell has been schooling them in half-mile sprints and claims they already can run like greyhounds.

He outlined this campaign plan against the followers of the hounds: Campbell and his wife, accompanied by the dogs, will trail the local foxhunters in a car.

"When a quarry is sighted and begins to flee," he said, "my wife and I will be close by. As the hounds give chase, we shall release Simon and Sally in their path."

"The hounds will have three foxes to chase, and the result should be utter chaos. Simon and Sally will be safe enough—if there were such a thing as a fox derby they'd be certain winners."

"When they have caused enough confusion we will whistle and they will run back and jump into the car," as they have been trained to do.

Chicago Is Shut Out 5-0 By Athletics

By The Associated Press

The Chicago White Sox were shut out 5-0 Wednesday by the Kansas City Athletics and fell three games behind the New York Yankees in the American league pennant chase.

Virgil Trucks got credit for the victory although Tom Morgan came on in the sixth with the bases loaded and one out to preserve the big right-hander's shut-out and his seventh victory against a single loss.

Don Donovan, who started for visiting Chicago, lost his third game in 11 decisions.

Yogi Berra drove in eight runs and Bob Turley struck out 11 batters as the league-leading New York Yankees thrashed the Boston Red Sox 10-0 for their seventh successive triumph at Yankee stadium.

The squat catcher, back in his old slugging groove, smashed a homerun and two singles, as the Yankees pounded Tom Brewer and George Sures for eight of their 10 hits in the first three innings to open up a huge 9-0 lead.

Turley, pitching his third straight strong game, permitted the Red Sox only three singles, none after the third inning, as he recorded his fourth victory against two defeats.

The long-armed right-hander, still pitching without a windup, issued only three walks and hit a batter as he registered his second shutout before 23,065 cash customers.

Southpaw Don Most of the Cleveland Indians pitched the first shut-out of his major league career Wednesday, holding the Detroit Tigers to six hits for a 6-0 victory.

The home-standing Indians rapped nine hits, including a homer by Chico Carrasquel.

At Baltimore the Orioles clipped rookie Jim Hulse for five runs in the second inning and coasted to an 8-3 victory over the Washington Senators in a loosely-played game.

Cards' Showing Has League Wondering

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, July 4 (AP)—We have been trying to figure out what is making the St. Louis Cardinals tick, outside some good, timely hitting; unexpectedly fine pitching from a couple of fellows not counted upon too heavily; adequate fielding, and a double jigger of good managing. Here is a club generally picked to be no better than fourth in the National league this year, yet here is July 4 and they are right up there battling for the lead. Maybe in the lead right now, as the lead practically changes twice a day with the tide, and players on one club might say: "We're in first place, weren't we?"

St. Louis finished fourth last year, but it was a rather steady fourth about 17 games back of the champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

At that, it was considerably better than their 1955 finish, when they were rated the best seventh-place club ever to play baseball.

A peculiar blend of yellow youth, moderate experience, and veteran ball players are the Cardinals, with the nice man, Stan Musial, still the bell cow. Musial, who never squawks at an umpire's decision, couldn't even find anything bad to say about the club owners when he testified at the Washington hearing. Everything always is just lovely with the team.

On the experience side, he has Al Dark and Del Ennis to back him up, and the three are bolstered by some of the most capable youngsters now operating.

Youngsters such as whistling Don Blasingame, Wally Moon, Ken Boyer, and the up-from-Rochester Eddie Kasko. And don't forget peppery Hal Smith, who has been doing a fine job of handling the surprising pitching the club has been getting.

TEAM SELECTED LONDON, July 4 (AP)—Sheila Armstrong, Christine Truman, Shirley Bloomer, Ann Shilcock and Ann Haydon have been selected to represent Great Britain in the World cup matches against the United States at Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 10-11. Miss Truman, 16, is the youngest girl ever named to Britain's cup team.

Salt Lake Blasts Braves to Take Mid-Season Flag

SALT LAKE CITY, July 4 (AP)—The Salt Lake Bees grabbed the first-half Pioneer league pennant here Wednesday night, trouncing Boise, 12-1. Salt Lake and Idaho Falls came into the final night of first-half play virtually tied. But the Bees, playing two fewer games than the Russets, had the edge by five percentage points. Idaho Falls lost to Missoula 5-4 Wednesday to make the Bees title that much more certain.

Relief pitcher Ed Radsevich picked up the win for Salt Lake. Pitching the final two and one-third innings, he allowed only one hit and no runs during his stint.

Fern Carson started for the Bees on the mound, allowing two hits in the four innings he pitched. Carson was nipped for an earned run in the fourth driven in by Mel McGavock for the Braves.

That was the first run of the ballgame. But the Bees came back with an extra-hit barrage which included a triple by Gene Klinger and doubles by Fred Hopke, Klinger and pitcher John Hogg who relieved Carson.

Klinger also drove in five of the 12 runs during the night. The three Salt Lake hurlers allowed only four hits with Hogg giving up a harmless single in his two and two-thirds innings of work.

"I entered 11 previous times at Indianapolis," says the native of Columbus, O. "I just kept losing. Indianapolis until I won it. I have retired comfortably before the race but I wanted to end up one of the most successful careers a driver could ever have."

Hanks, a personable crew man of 42, has been saving his winnings ever since 1937 when he won the Pacific Coast Midway championship. He started driving midway at Gilmore Stadium in Los Angeles in 1936 "but didn't do too well that first year."

Now he owns choice stocks in bonds and an apartment house in Burbank, Calif., and lives at Pacific Palisades, Calif.

He holds the most titles among the active drivers, and is capturing more than $104,000 winning the 500 mile grand prix figures it's about time the retired Alice, his wife of 10 years, agrees she's from Luverne, Pa.

Sam has promised her that he will drive only four or five stock car races, possibly four in Milwaukee, for the rest of the summer and then hang up his helmet and goggles for good.

"Nothing will bring me back," Sam assures. "There were times in previous Indianapolis races when I got disgusted, driving my back out. I'd say to myself 'What I'm doing this for?' but I never let any thought of quitting."

Moffitt, total of 6,391 men out of 6,820 drivers who competed on a national day beat Gary Middleoff's 495 and 73 men out of 5,409 beat Kathy Cornelius' 73. The returns from 1,466 clubs of an estimated 1,000 expected to report.

RUSSETTS GET CATCHER DETROIT, July 4 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers Wednesday announced signing catcher Ralph Harrell, 17-year-old Kingsport, Tenn., right-handed hitter to a class O Idaho Falls contract.

The winning tally came with two out in the ninth when Siquelfield singled, stole second and raced home on Hintze's single.

Pitching Great Dies in Cuba At Age of 66 HAVANA, July 4 (AP)—Adolfo Luque, Cuba's greatest pitcher in the major leagues, died of a heart attack here Tuesday night. He would have been 67 on Aug. 4.

A member of the Cincinnati world champions in 1919 when the Reds beat the Chicago White Sox in the "Black Sox" series, Luque reached his greatest heights in 1923.

"That year he won 27 games for Cincinnati and lost only eight while pitching 322 innings for an earned run average of only 1.93."

A right-hander, Luque was first stricken a week ago and taken to Anglo American hospital.

Luque broke into organized baseball in 1911 with Havana and played with the Long Branch, N. Y., club in the old New York-New Jersey league in 1912-13 before breaking into the majors for a brief stay with the pennant winning Boston Braves in 1914. After that he played in the minors with Jersey City, Toronto and Louisville before joining Cincinnati late in 1918.

Altogether he appeared in 558 major league games, winning 194 and losing 179. He was known as a hard luck pitcher in that he lost a large number of games by close scores.

COACH RETIRES EL PASO, Tex., July 4 (AP)—Mike Brumelow, athletic director and football coach at Texas Western college since 1950, has retired as head football coach and has been succeeded by backfield coach Ben Collins.

Magic Valley Absorbs Fifth Straight Loss, Dropping 8-4 Decision to Pocatello

POCATELLO, July 4 (AP)—The Pocatello Athletics downed the Magic Valley Cowboys 8-4 in a Pioneer league contest here Wednesday night. The Athletics started the scoring in the first inning with two runs on a triple by Flash Gordon, a sacrifice fly by Don DeGroot, a single by Tony Canuzzo and a double by Joe Ala. Pitcher Bill Schoof hit his first homer of the season for two runs in the fourth frame and Pocatello added one more in the fifth. They scored three in the sixth when Cowboy rightfielder Tom Clarkson erred on a fly ball with the bases loaded.

Cowboys, Fireworks Open Here Tonight

The Magic Valley Cowboys return to Jaycee park today to begin the second half of the Pioneer league season against the Pocatello Athletics. The annual Fourth of July fireworks display will be fired at the park immediately after the game. Business manager Ed Schack reports the game will begin at 7:30 p.m. so the display can begin earlier. He also said the Cowboys ticket office will be open this afternoon for persons wanting to buy tickets in advance. Several persons purchased their Wednesday, he added.

At the same time, Schack announced the arrival of the last two players sent here by the Chicago Cubs from Lafayette, La. The new man was Vic Kray, a shortstop, and left-handed pitcher Bill Pleis.

To make room for them, right-hander Dave Hall has been sent to Bakersfield, Calif. However, the Cowboys must cut two more from their present roster to make the player limit set up by the league. The cut will be announced probably Friday after Schack has conferred with field manager Walt Dixon.

Schack again urged all Magic Valley persons to attend the game and fireworks display. "The display should start between 9:30 and 10, but with the second half just starting, the fireworks could easily begin when the Cowboys take the field at 7:30," he smiled.

Schools losing coaches automatically search for the coach with the best record, but the smaller schools find these are not available.

Usually vacancies appear in schools that fall under two categories. The first and foremost is, of course, a school that has just completed a disastrous year on the athletic field and the coach is under pressure from the so-called "boosters" groups that won't "boost" anything but a winner.

The second vacancy occurs when a coach looking over his junior high material finds the team is about to descend on the school and he gets out with his winning record intact. Of course, numerous other situations force coaches to quit, but the first two are usually what a prospect looks into before signing the contract. Many like the challenge of a "poor record" school affairs.

In establishing these records, the coaches use the small schools as stepping stones and usually resign when the opportunity presents itself, as everyone else would. The consolation the small school is that each year another few thousand ex-athletes emerge from colleges and universities armed with BA and dreams of becoming a nut Rockne or Adolph Rupp.

But there are numerous examples in this area to show many of the coaches have "found a home" and are satisfied, at least for the present. Murray Satterfield, Wendell Gordon Brown, Glenns Perry, Jerry Ellinger, Jerome, and Rulon Budge are prime examples. All have available records at these schools and although they have doubtlessly received overtures from many schools throughout the Northwest, remain in their chosen nooks.

CHICAGO, July 4 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs somehow stumbled out of the National league wilderness, a pitcher may lead them.

That would be 20-year-old Dick Drott, who last Wednesday hurled the season's first shutout by a Cub pitcher.

Drott's 3-hitter for a 9-0 victory high started a Cub sweep of a win against the Phils gave the spring right-hander a 3-0 record. His freshman big league season of his fourth in pro ball.

Drott, who celebrated his 21st birthday on July 1, is making his first major league chance a very busy business and a delight for manager Bob Schefeling.

For instance, Drott cooled off his white-washing of the team in which he tossed eight in the first game. Then he donned his uniform again and sat on the bench as the Cubs whipped the Phils 4-3 the nightcap.

Asked why he didn't take advantage of an early afternoon off, the kid from Cincinnati replied: "I wish I could leave the ball park, there isn't anything else to do." And then Monday, an off-day for the Cubs, Drott was out pitching in practice to rookie shortstop Dick Little.

Jack's my roomie and he asked I would pitch to him," explained Drott, who led the Pacific Coast league in strikeouts last season with 119. He figure the other guys in the cup help you win so you should pitch to them.

Schefeling had high praise for Drott's "pitching sense." "I think he has better control than when I had him at Los Angeles last season," said Schefeling, and this season, with a few breaks, record now could be 9-3 instead of 4-4.

Drott has a "live" fast ball, a fine curve and a change-up he uses with curve. Drott's six victories represent roughly one-third of the 19 wins to date.

Michigan State's girls' tennis team beat three matches in 1957 and each by a shutout.

Sisti Advocates Versatility in Baseball and Proves It Personally

AUSTIN, Tex., July 4 (AP)—Sibby Sisti, former major leaguer, who has seen service at six positions while managing the Austin Senators of the Texas league this year, is a long-standing advocate of versatility. Sisti, who moved up to manage the Milwaukee Braves affiliate in Austin this year, already has played the four infield positions and two in the outfield this season. "I got as far as the bullpen one day," Sisti said, but decided against a pitching chore.

Sisti, who turns 37 this month, played 14 years in the big time with the Braves at Boston and later at Milwaukee after the transfer there. He was a member of Boston's 1918 National league pennant winner.

"You have to learn to play one position first," Sisti advises young ballplayers, "then if the good Lord gives you the ability to play other positions, it's a great asset."

He pointed out that if a player is tied to one position, he may have trouble breaking into the big leagues because the team owning him may have a star who is a fixture at that post.

"The top thrill I had," Sisti said, "was somebody else's misfortune. Eddie Stanky broke an ankle in June, 1948, and I played the rest of the year."

Sisti said he moved from shortstop to second base in the pennant drive. Later, he pointed out, Alvin Dark had pulled down the job at short, and "I couldn't get back in at shortstop any more."

He said he played seven positions one year with the Braves, and was "more or less a third-string catcher in 1948."

Sisti said he will stay on the active playing roster "as long as I can help the ball club."

He pointed out he played under Casey Stengel for four years, but is rooting for the Chicago White Sox in the American league over Stengel's New York Yankees.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4 (AP)—Althea Gibson of New York and Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., the top-seeded women's doubles team, smashed into the semifinals of the Wimbledon tennis championships Wednesday with an easy 6-3, 6-0 victory over Angela Mortimer and Pat Hird of Britain.

Another U. S. team, Miami Arnold of Redwood, Calif., and Karol Fageros of Miami, Fla., was eliminated in the third round. They were the victims of Mexico's pet Yola Ramirez and Rosa Maria Reyes, 6-6, 6-3.

Ex-Railroad Man Shares Lead in British Golf Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 4 (AP)—Eric Brown, one-time Scottish railway fireman who called St. Andrews hallowed Old Course a "dirt-track," scored 10 threes in a brilliant 67 Wednesday to tie Laurie Ayton for the lead in the British Open golf championship. Ayton and Brown finished the opening round in the rain shortly after Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., came home in a lousy wind with a par 72 which left him in a strong challenging position.

Middlecoff's round, completed in three hours 18 minutes, blew up a controversy with four players who were behind him.

They shouted at the 1949 and 1956 American Open champion, waved their clubs at him, and trooped into the Royal and Ancient clubhouse to officially protest at the "slow play."

The R. and A. sided with Middlecoff and announced the American played in "reasonable time and no action was called for."

It was learned that the R. and A. unofficially suggested that Middlecoff please speed it up a bit. Several R. and A. championship committeemen later passed the word around that at least 14 other players in the 96-man field took more than three hours and 20 minutes for their golf.

The day was a great one for Scotland as the 97-year-old championship got under way.

Brown is professional at Buchanan's castle on the high road of the banks of Loch Lomond. Ayton is a Scot who teaches golf at a club at Ipswich, England.

Frank Stunham was second lowest among four Americans who qualified. The Toledo millionaire's son had a 74. Gene Andrews, Pacific Palisades, Calif., amateur, a 75, and Frank Keck of Champaign, Ill., an air force lieutenant stationed in Germany, had an 83.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 4 (AP)—Cary Middlecoff, the finicky Tennessee golfer who has won the American open title twice, shot a par 72 Wednesday in his first round of the British Open and drew formal complaints from British rivals because of his slow play.

After Middlecoff had taken three hours and 25 minutes to shoot 35-37-72 over the St. Andrews Old Course, several players behind him said they had held up by his deliberate play.

Robert Halsall, "professional at the Birkdale club, entered a formal complaint with the Royal and Ancient Golf club about "slow play of Middlecoff."

"We averaged 10 minutes waiting on each tee," Halsall said. "It has got to stop. Such things are all right in America, where a four-hour round of golf is normal. But we won't have it over here."

John Langley, official R. and A. observer with the match, said he was completely satisfied that Middlecoff did not intentionally hold up play.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4 (AP)—Tennis slugger Lew Hoad defeated Sweden's Sven Davidson, and Ashley Cooper outlasted Neale Fraser Wednesday setting up an all-Australian men's singles final at Wimbledon for the second straight year.

Defending Champion Hoad—"Little Stone Face" of the lawn tennis world—served, volleyed and drove Davidson to defeat in one semi-final, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Cooper, tall, dark and handsome heart throb of adolescent spectators—knocked off fellow Aussie Fraser, 1-6, 14-12, 6-3, 8-6, in a match that seemed as long as a day in the dentist's chair.

Hoad and Cooper will meet Friday on the pressure cooking center court for the title that blond 23-year-old Hoad now holds—the crown generally recognized as tops in the amateur tennis world.

Magic Valley high schools are again beginning their search for coaches who can produce a winning team in everything from tennis to football and some are finding the hard to find.

Floyd Bowers, superintendent of Castelford schools, reports his school is looking for a football and basketball coach to fill the gap made when Byron Jones left this spring. He said Jones had accepted a position at Cordova, Alaska, for the coming year.

Schools losing coaches automatically search for the coach with the best record, but the smaller schools find these are not available.

Vassie Leads Pioneer Loop All-Star Vote

SALT LAKE CITY, July 4 (AP)—Heavy hitting second baseman Lou Vassie of Salt Lake City continued the top vote getter in the Pioneer league All-Star poll Wednesday as figures released Wednesday by League President Claude Engberg said Wednesday.

Engberg said that as of May 31 the league was running 13 per cent behind 1956 attendance. By June 30, he said, the deficit was reduced to 14 per cent.

Total attendance at 212 games this year, Engberg said, was 195,857, compared with 221,987 for the same number of games in 1956.

Billings, which was in first place through all of June, showed a marked increase over 1956, with attendance of 46,044 in 30 games, compared with 37,488 last year.

Idaho Falls, strong contender for first place, also showed an increase, 12,705 in 25 games, compared with 12,285 last year.

Salt Lake City the third club in the hot race for first place showed a slight decline, 34,793 in 24 games, compared with 37,636 last year.

Boise, with 24,306 in 24 games, was almost even with last year's 24,460.

The other four clubs showed marked declines: Great Falls, 25,307 in 28 games, compared with 40,327 last year; Missoula, 17,701 in 37 games, compared with 24,311; Pocatello 16,472 in 28 games compared with 23,668; Magic Valley 11,510 in 28 games, compared with 19,794.

The third compilation of ballots also showed John Wisniewski, Salt Lake shortstop, had edged out Billings' Lyle Krall. Wisniewski had 3,556 votes to Krall's 2,865.

The voting leaders: Pitchers—Brown, Boise, 5,583; Dostal, Idaho Falls, 4,571; Hicks, Billings, 4,560; Evans, Billings, 3,875; Denney, Magic Valley, 4,983; Schultz, Missoula, 3,472; Shima, Salt Lake, 3,170; Carson, Salt Lake, 3,087.

Crooker Hurls Phillips-Wells To 12-2 Win

Phillips Wells, led by their iron arm pitcher Bob Crooker, protected their undefeated record in the city industrial softball league Wednesday night, blasting Jerome Merchants 12-2.

Crooker allowed only three hits during the seven-inning affair, Junior Robinson accounting for one with a double. Losing pitcher Skip Easterbrook gave up only seven hits, but bases on balls and errors kept him in trouble through most of the game. Chuck Lamar touched him for a double, the only other extra-base blow of the game.

The win kept Phillips-Wells three games in front of the pack. It had been reported Sunday Tommy Walkers beat them last week, but the report was in error.

Harry Jones, league supervisor, reports there will be no more games this week.
